

This issue is dedicated to the memory of Susan G. Hadden (1945-1995). Ms. Hadden, a New York native, served as a professor of public policy at the Lyndon Baines Johnson School of Public Affairs at The University of Texas at Austin, and as a member of the National Board of the Alliance for Public Technology. Ms. Hadden has written two books and more than sixty articles on telecommunications policy issues, including an article published in the 1994 special issue of the CommLaw Conspectus entitled: Extending Universal Service through the National Information Infrastructure. Ms. Hadden recently testified before Congress on providing the poor with access to the information superhighway.
