Dedication to Professor John L. Garvey, Whiteford Professor

The Catholic University Law Review is proud to dedicate this issue of the Review to Professor John L. Garvey on the occasion of his thirtieth year of teaching at The Catholic University of America School of Law. A tenure of such length bespeaks more than mere staying power. His career here is characterized above all by exemplary classroom teaching, in courses ranging from common law pleading to contemporary estate and gift tax. His scholarship in the areas of wills, trusts, and estates has enhanced the law, especially in the District of Columbia. As an alumnus, Professor, Associate Dean, and Dean, Professor Garvey has epitomized the dedicated, conscientious supporter of The Catholic University of America and of its law school.

Including his student years, Professor Garvey's influential presence already spans five decades. As students, for whom the law school years are only too transient, we appreciate the constancy, the commitment, and the quality Professor Garvey has brought to our legal education. Thirty successful years are a remarkable achievement. We wish him, and our successors in the student body, many more.
