GENERAL

- CIVIL RIGHTS AND THE AMERICAN NEGRO: A DOCUMENTARY HISTORY, edited by Albert P. Blaustein and Robert L. Zangrando. New York: Washington Square Press, 1968. Pp. xv, 671. Paper: $1.45. Subject: A presentation of the development of the issue of civil rights for black Americans from the first shipment of slaves in 1619 through the President's Commission on Civil Disorders in 1968. This historical presentation consists of official legal documents and other selections which have gained recognition as quasi-public pronouncements such as Letter from Birmingham Jail by Martin Luther King.
- COMPUTERS AND THE LAW: AN INTRODUCTORY HANDBOOK, edited by Robert P. Bigelow. Chicago: Commerce Clearing House, Inc., 2d ed. 1969. Pp. xiii, 226. Paper: $9.50. Subject: A handbook prepared by the Standing Committee on Law and Technology of the American Bar Association, introducing the basic machinery and systems of data processing. The work explores the uses of the computer in the law and in the government, and discusses the economic, ethical and jurimetrical implications of computer technology in the legal profession.
- DEMOCRATIC REPRESENTATION: REAPPORTIONMENT IN LAW AND POLITICS, by Robert G. Dixon, Jr. New York: Oxford University Press, 1968. Pp. xviii, 654. Cloth: Trade edition $12.50; Text edition $8.00. Subject: An analytical exploration of the equal representation issue set in its historical and philosophical perspective, considering racial and political gerrymandering, the "Dirksen Amendment" campaign, the role of bipartisan commissions, computer use, the relationship of apportionment to party competition, legislative results, local apportionment, and the potential impact of apportionment on judicial election districts and on the electoral college.
- JOHN MARSHALL: THE MAN WHO MADE THE COURT SUPREME, by Bill Severn. New York: David McKay Co., 1969. Pp. 248. Cloth: $4.95. Subject: A lively biography of the Chief Justice whose historic decisions established the power and durability of the Supreme Court as an independent and equal branch of the government and who gave the bare bones of the Constitution flesh and blood. This work, by the author of Mr. Chief Justice: Earl Warren, accents John Marshall the man and the personal experiences that shaped his achievements.
- MODERN CONSTITUTIONAL LAW, by Chester J. Antieau. Rochester, New York: The Lawyers Co-operative Publishing Co., 1969. Two vols., pp. xlvi, 1867. Cloth: $54.50. Subject: A topical analysis and commentary on constitutional law, with references to appropriate Supreme Court decisions. Volume 1 deals with the rights, powers and duties of the individual within a governed society; volume 2 discusses the powers, limitations and obligations of the states and the federal government.
- THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF INTERNATIONAL OIL AND THE UNDERDEVELOPED COUNTRIES, by Michael Tanzer. Boston: Beacon Press, 1969. Pp. x, 435. Cloth: $12.50. Subject: An appraisal of the influence of oil on the economic life of underdeveloped countries, which are dependent upon imported oil. This book analyzes the structure and policies of international oil companies and examines the diverse political influences on their activities. It treats in detail the oil policy of India as an example of the problem of government versus private (foreign) ownership of oil companies.
- THE PROPERTY TAX AND ITS ADMINISTRATION, edited by Arthur D. Lynn, Jr. Madison, Wisconsin: University of Wisconsin Press, 1969. Pp. xiv, 244. Cloth: $7.50. Subject: The proceedings of a symposium sponsored by the Committee on Taxation, Resources, and Economic Development at the University of Wisconsin in 1967. In four parts (An Overview, Administrative Organization, Assessment Procedures, and Administration and Evolving Property Tax Policy) the contributors discuss public policy, practicality, equity, the roles of electronic data processing and human assessors and possible state legislative reform, including Hawaii's Land Use Law in its relation to the property tax.

- STUDIES IN SUBSTANTIVE TAX REFORM, edited by Arthur B. Willis. Chicago: American Bar Foundation and Southern Methodist University, 1969. Pp. xv, 183. Cloth: $5.00; Paper: $2.50. Subject: A report of a pilot project of the American Bar Association on substantive tax reform, which demonstrates the feasibility of employing the computer as a major research tool in the field of income tax reform. The work is replete with graphs and charts detailing the results of the study.
- THE TASKS OF PENOLOGY, edited by Harvey S. Perlman and Thomas B. Allington. Lincoln, Nebraska: University of Nebraska Press, 1969. Pp. viii, 241. Cloth: $7.95. Subject: A compilation of twelve articles which discuss the various problems of criminal correction. This book describes the modern concepts underlying correctional law and offers recommendations for improving the rehabilitative function of the correctional system and predicts future developments in this system, including innovations in sentencing procedures.
- TAX PROBLEMS OF NON-PROFIT ORGANIZATIONS, edited by George D. Webster. New York: Journal of Taxation, Inc., 1968. Pp. vi, 265. Cloth: $9.50. Subject: A review of the tax problems facing charitable, educational and other nonprofit organizations. The work, consisting of articles by twelve lawyers, CPA's, and governmental officials, is an outgrowth of papers prepared for the American University's Annual Conference on Tax Problems of Nonprofit Organizations. It stresses current tax problem areas, such as leases, insurance programs and political expenditures, as well as current legislative developments in the area of nonprofit organizations.
- THE TROUBLE WITH LAWYERS, by Murray Teigh Bloom. New York: Simon and Shuster, 1968. Pp. 351. Cloth: $6.50. Subject: A study of the alleged victimizing of the American middle class in their legal dealings by the American legal profession, with special emphasis on the practice of minimum fee price-fixing agreements and the difficulties encountered in trying to have attorneys admonished in any way for their wrongdoings.
- THE WAY WE GO TO WAR, by Merlo J. Pusey. Boston: Houghton Mifflin Co., 1969. Pp. xiii, 202. Cloth: $4.95. Subject: A discussion of the constitutional problems raised by executive war-making. The work examines the history of the "war power" and emphasizes the obsolete nature of legislative declarations of war in modern times. It criticizes the executive decisions to make war in Korea and Vietnam in the absence of a specific Congressional declaration of war. The author proposes a War Powers Act, which would define the President's right to send troops abroad for the protection of American lives, property, and vital security, but would require him to inform Congress of any emergency involving a risk of war and to abide by its decisions.

CASEBOOK

- CRIMINAL JUSTICE ADMINISTRATION, MATERIALS AND CASES, by Frank J. Remington, Donald J. Newman, Edward L. Kimball, Marygold Melli, and Herman Goldstein. Indianapolis: The Bobbs-Merrill Co., 1969. Pp. xlvii, 1504. Cloth: $15.00. Subject: An examination of the systems of criminal and juvenile justice administration. The book illustrates the operation of the criminal justice system by presenting fact situations which have been drawn from the field reports of the American Bar Foundation Survey of the Administration of Criminal Justice. It discusses the legislative, judicial and administrative responsibility for policy making in the administration of criminal justice. There is an express de-emphasis of appellate cases in favor of illustrative fact situations in this casebook designed for use in an advanced criminal law course.

LOOSE-LEAF SERVICE

THE LAW OF LIABILITY INSURANCE, by Rowland H. Long. New York: Matthew Bender and Co., 1969. Two vols., pp. 1250. Cloth: $60.00. Subject: A reference work analyzing policy by policy and provision by provision, the current coverage, conditions and exclusions of nearly every kind of liability insurance policy.
