Books Received

- CENSORSHIP OF THE MOVIES, THE SOCIAL AND POLITICAL CONTROL OF A MASS MEDIUM, by Richard S. Randall. Madison, Wisconsin: The University of Wisconsin Press, 1968. Pp. ix, 280. Cloth: $7.95. Subject: Examines the implications of the tension between the right of free expression and the requirements of mass democratic society. Included is a history of official censorship, a summary and analysis of such legal approaches as prior censorship, and reports on unofficial negotiations between censors and film owners.
- CIVIL LIBERTIES DOCKET, edited by Ann Fagan Ginger. Berkeley, California: The National Lawyers Guild, 1968. Pp. xviii, 213. Paper: $10.00. Subject: A new annual describing 1,523 cases pending in state and federal courts throughout the country in which an issue was raised concerning civil liberties, due process of law, civil rights, or the law of the poor.
- CORPORATE ACQUISITIONS AND MERGERS, VOL. 1, by Byron E. Fox and Eleanor M. Fox. New York: Matthew Bender & Co., Inc., 1968. Pp. 800. Cloth: $50.00. Subject: Deals with tax and antitrust considerations in acquisitions. A discussion of FTC guidelines, together with an evaluation of significant cases and concepts involving the Clayton Act (Section 7), are included.
- THE CRIME LABORATORY, CASE STUDIES OF SCIENTIFIC CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION, by James W. Osterburg. Bloomington, Indiana: Indiana University Press, 1968. Pp. xx, 330. Cloth: $12.00. Paper: $5.95. Subject: Demonstrates what the investigator may expect of the laboratory and what is required of the officer arriving first at the scene of the crime. The use of case materials obtained from police agencies at all levels of government throughout the United States and abroad affords real-life exposure to actual problems experienced by investigators.
- DISCRETIONARY JUSTICE, A PRELIMINARY INQUIRY, by Kenneth Culp Davis. Baton Rouge, Louisiana: Louisiana State University Press, 1969. Pp. xii, 233. Cloth: $8.50. Subject: Explores the areas of discretionary justice that are beyond the reach of both judicial review and trial-type hearings. The author advances concrete proposals for reforming our system of discretionary justice such as the elimination of unnecessary discretionary power and finding better ways to confine, structure, and check necessary discretionary power.
- THE EDWARDIAN TURN OF MIND, by Samuel Hynes. Princeton, New Jersey: Princeton University Press, 1968. Pp. xiv, 427. Cloth: $9.75. Subject: In this portrayal of the intellectual climate of Edwardian England the author chooses representative figures and issues to define the typical crises and habits of thought of the age.

- 1969 EVERYMAN'S INCOME TAX, by the CCH Editorial Staff. Chicago: Commerce Clearing House, Inc., 1969. Pp. 80. Paper: $1.50. Subject: Provides easy-to-understand answers for the average taxpayer and reflects pertinent 1968 income tax changes. Includes all state sales and gasoline tax guidelines, rate tables and check-lists of taxable and nontaxable, deductible and nondeductible items.
- FAIR TRIAL AND FREE PRESS, by Paul C. Reardon and Clifton Daniel. Washington, D.C.: The American Enterprise Institute, 1968. Pp. 181. Cloth: $4.50. Subject: The product of a televised debate, this book sets out the confrontation between the American press and the legal profession in attempting to strike a balance between the fair trial and free press guarantees of the Constitution.
- FOREIGN POLICY AND INTERNATIONAL LAW, by Charles G. Fenwick. Dobbs Ferry, New York: Oceana Publications, Inc., 1968. Pp. xii, 142. Cloth: $6.00. Subject: A brief survey of the issues involved and of the traditions of the past and the changes in foreign policy called for by the new developments in international law and the new political and economic contracts of recent years.
- LAW WITHOUT SANCTIONS, by Michael Barkun. New Haven, Connecticut: Yale University Press, 1968. Pp. vii, 179. Cloth: $6.50. Subject: Drawing not only on the resources of jurisprudence and political science but on sociology, anthropology, and social psychology as well, the author proposes that primitive "stateless" societies and the contemporary international community—each without the sanctioning forces of police and courts deemed essential to municipal law—may well possess legal systems encompassing "law-with-order," although not necessarily "law-with-justice."
- PUBLIC OFFICIALS: ELECTED AND APPOINTED, by Hugh Y. Bernard. Dobbs Ferry, New York: Oceana Publications, Inc., 1968. Pp. vi, 119. Cloth: $3.00. Subject: A fundamental discussion of the law governing public officers and the governmental process.
- READINGS IN LAW AND PSYCHIATRY, edited by Richard C. Allen, Elyce Zenoff Ferster and Jesse G. Rubin. Baltimore, Maryland: The Johns Hopkins Press, 1968. Pp. xvi, 519. Cloth: $12.50. Subject: Provides law students with a background in the behavioral sciences, and exposes psychiatrists to legal theory. The text draws heavily on primary sources such as trial transcripts and psychiatric and psychological reports. Each group of readings is provided with an introduction and commentaries, questions for discussion, and suggested collateral reading.
- RELIGION AND THE PUBLIC ORDER, edited by Donald A. Giannella. Ithaca, New York: Cornell University Press, 1968. Pp. 328. Cloth: $6.00. Subject: The latest in an annual series, this volume contains a survey of recent political and legal developments in church-state relations and a review of recent books on religion, law, and society.
- ROLES OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL OF THE UNITED STATES, by Luther A. Huston, Arthur Selwyn Miller, Samuel Krislov and Robert G. Dixon, Jr. Washington, D.C.: The American Enterprise Institute, 1968. Pp. 158. Paper: $2.00. Subject: Traces the growth of the office of the attorney general from a one-man, part-time job to the vast and complex office that it is today. The political aspects of the

- office are examined together with the Justice Department's role as amicus curiae. Also surveyed is the attorney general's legislative role as well as his role in the courts in civil rights matters.
- SOLUTIONS FOR TODAY'S PERSONNEL PROBLEMS, by the CCH Editorial Staff. Chicago: Commerce Clearing House, Inc., 1969. Pp. 512. Paper: $10.00. Subject: Shows what has been done in hundreds of different on-the-job labor dispute situations. Discussed are such potential trouble areas as absences, alcoholism, assaults, bumping, discrimination, horseplay, layoffs and overtime.
- TEACHERS AND UNIONS, THE APPLICABILITY OF COLLECTIVE BARGAINING TO PUBLIC EDUCATION, by Michael H. Moskow. Philadelphia: University of Pennsylvania Press, 1968. Pp. xiii, 288. Cloth: $8.50. Paper: $5.95. Subject: Presents the facts and issues involved in the movement for collective determination of teacher wages and working conditions.
- TWO-FACTOR THEORY: THE ECONOMICS OF REALITY, by Louis O. Kelso and Patricia Hetter. New York: Random House, Inc., 1968. Pp. xxi, 202. Paper: $1.65. Subject: Outlines in detail a Second Income Plan that would permit the average wage earner to participate in the production of wealth not only by his labor but through his capital ownership.
- THE UNDERDEVELOPED AREAS WITHIN THE COMMON MARKET, by Sergio Barzanti. Princeton, New Jersey: Princeton University Press, 1965. Pp. 437. Paper: $3.95. Subject: The author has focussed attention on the underdeveloped areas of Italy and France. He argues that the social unrest and political insecurity so prevalent in these regions are conducive to a revival of nationalism and thus threaten the continuity and solidarity of the community.
- THE WARREN COURT, by Archibald Cox. Cambridge, Massachusetts: Harvard University Press, 1968. Pp. vi, 144. Cloth: $4.95. Subject: A description of the main lines of constitutional development under the Warren Court. Analyzed are the underlying pressures involved and the long-range institutional consequences in terms of the distribution of governmental power. Mr. Cox concludes that the trend of the rulings has been "in keeping with the true genius of our institutions."
