THE STATE OF THE FIRST AMENDMENT AT THE APPROACH OF THE MILLENNIUM

SYMPOSIUM—HOSTED BY THE COMMLAW CONSPECTUS AND THE MEDIA INSTITUTE

Remarks—The Honorable Patrick Leahy, U.S. Senator (D-VT) .................................................. 169

Red Lion and the Culture of Regulation

Robert Corn-Revere .................................................................................................................. 173

The Constitution of Code: Limitations on Choice-Based Critiques of Cyberspace Regulation

Lawrence Lessig ...................................................................................................................... 181

The Culture of Regulation

Rodney A. Smolla .................................................................................................................... 193

ARTICLES

The Public Interest and Bell Entry into Long Distance Under Section 271 of the Communications Act

Michael F. Finn .......................................................................................................................... 203

Taking Aim at the Takings Argument: Using Forward Looking Pricing Methodologies to Price Unbundled Network Elements

E. Sanderson Hoe and Stephen Ruscus ..................................................................................... 231

BOOK REVIEW

Kevin Goldberg ............................................................................................................................. 245

COMMENTS

The Public Interest and the Introduction of Competition into Local Telephone Networks

Henry H. Bartlett ......................................................................................................................... 251

Deregulation of Broadcast Ownership Caps: More Monopolies, Less Localism, Decreased Diversity and Violations of Equal Protection

Jill K. Howard ............................................................................................................................... 269

Telemedicine: Ringing in a New Era of Health Care Delivery

Julie M. Kearney .......................................................................................................................... 289

Who Needs Wall Street: The Dilemma of Regulating Securities Trading in Cyberspace

Christina K. McGlosson ............................................................................................................... 305

CONSPECTUS

Major Court Decisions of 1996 ...................................................................................................... 323
