ARTICLES

The Moral Responsibility of the Corporate Lawyer
   Judith A. Mc Morrow & Luke M. Scheuer .......................................................... 275

Effectuating Disclosure Under the Williams Act
   Ronald J. Colombo ........................................................................................... 311

Systemic Financial-Service Institutions and Monopoly Power
   Sharon E. Foster ............................................................................................... 357

Regulating Morality Through the Common Law and Exclusionary Zoning
   George P. Smith II & Gregory P. Bailey .......................................................... 403

COMMENTS

Cell-Phone Searches: Works Like a Computer, Protected Like a Pager?
   Byron Kish ......................................................................................................... 445

Trawling for Meaning: A New Standard for “Best Scientific Information Available” in the Magnuson-Stevens Fisheries Conservation Act
   James William Merrill ......................................................................................475

The Scarlet L: Have Recent Developments in Lobbying Regulation Gone Too Far?
   Brian W. Schoeneman ......................................................................................505

NOTE

United States v. Smith: An Example to Other Courts for How They Should Approach Eyewitness Experts
   Maureen Stoneman .........................................................................................533